YANKS BUNCH HITS OFF NEHF FOR 3RD VICTORY

Nehf is Unable to Maintain Winning Streak Started by Giants

HOYT PITCHES GOOD GAME
More Than 35,000 Fans See Yankees Triumph in Fifth Game of Series

Polo Grounds, New York.—Waite Hoyt, the pink faced Brooklyn school boy, added another sparkling jewel to his hero's crown here this afternoon when he won his second world's series game for the Yankees, defeating the Giants 3 to 1 in a bitterly fought game.

This victory made the count three and two in games for the series and gave the Giants a severe setback, who had looked upon victory in this game as the turning point in the series. Hoyt started off poorly in the first inning when the Giants got their only run of the game. McNally fumbled Burns' grounder and started the trouble. Frisch singled off the young pitcher's glove and Young walked, filling the bases. George Kelly came through with a single and the only Giant, run of the game was over.

Art Nehf, the southpaw pitcher, started off in brilliant form. The Yankees got to him, however, in the third inning, when McNally walked, reaching third on Schang's double and scored on Miller's sacrifice fly.

The play by innings:

First Inning
Yankees—Miller up. Miller popped to Bancroft. Peck up. Peck out, Frisch to Kelly. It was on the first ball. Ruth up, fanned, swinging at a low curve. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees—R. Meusel up. R. Meusel singled in front of Young. Pipp sacrificed. Frisch to Kelly. R. Meusel stopping at second. Ward fanned and R. Meusel was out at the plate. Frisch to Smith. No runs, one hit, one error.

McNally flied to Burns who made a most marvelous catch, baying high in the air for the ball. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Nehf went all to pieces this inning and was badly unbecomingly. Burns' leading catch of McNally's fly cut down a possible triple.

Giants—Smith up. Ruth fainted on the Yankee bench and was revived by application of water, the game being

CAPITAL AND LABOR AT EDGE IN JOB CONFAB

Labor Leaders Threaten to Bolt Conference if Wage Cuts Are Pressed

HAVE PROFITEERING HABIT
Railroads Assert Lower Rates Are Impossible Without Reduced Expenses

By Herbert Walker
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—The national unemployment conference, resuming its sessions Monday after a ten-day recess, will be asked by Secretary of Commerce Hoover to recommend reductions in both railroad rates and wages, as one of the permanent measures for relieving unemployment.

Hoover, who is guiding the conference, has come to the conclusion that the business depression cannot be relieved permanently until railroad rates are brought down from their high level.

Railroad executives assert rate reductions are impossible under present operating costs and that wages must be cut. Hoover is hopeful an agreement can be reached through the conference to cut rates and wages simultaneously.

The conference admittedly is entering its "critical period."

Representatives of capital are insisting that the march back towards prosperity is being held up by refusals of various groups of laborers to accept wage cuts.

Organized labor in conference during the last week asserted capital has not shaken off "the war profiteering habit." Price cuts can be made without reducing wages, labor holds.

Hence, interest in the conference is centered on whether a recommendation for wage cuts can be pushed through. Samuel Gompers already opposed several proposals along this line which have been submitted to the conference.

Some organized labor leaders are ready to bolt the conference, if the questions of reduced wages, the open shop and other controversial questions are pressed before the conference.

Meanwhile Hoover is also working to bring about settled conditions in the coal mining industry, despite the refusal of John Lewis and other United Mine Workers leaders to agree to arbitrate the question of wage reductions, when the national wage agreement under which union miners in the central competitive field are now working expires next March.

Thirty-one cities have notified the conference of action taken to cooperate with it in its emergency recommendations. Hoover announced today many cities have inaugurated public works programs to prevent suffering this winter.

Tribute To City At Hospital Ceremony

Huge Crowd Braves Threatening Weather to Witness Laying of Cornerstone of New Hospital—Bishop is Chief Speaker.

Paying high tribute to the Franciscan sisters and the citizens of Appleton who made possible the building of the new St. Elizabeth hospital, the Rt. Rev. Paul P. Rhode, bishop of the Green Bay diocese, made the principal address at the laying of the cornerstone Sunday afternoon.

More than 1,000 people braved threatening skies and chill winds to witness the ceremony. Every organization, society and congregation in the city was represented by an adequate delegation and a large number of visitors from nearby cities made the trip here by automobile to be in attendance.

Shortly after 2 o'clock a procession of Capuchin monks, Franciscan sisters, Catholic clergy of Appleton and nearby cities and acolytes of local parishes escorted Bishop Rhode from the old hospital to a platform erected at the southwest corner of the new structure. Following a prayer, the bishop offered a blessing over the new cornerstone as it was being lowered into place.

Exemplification of Love
The bishop then opened the program by an address in which he said the building of the new hospital is a manifestation of the spirit of love and charity which in their daily lives and works exemplify in their daily lives and works, the citizens of Appleton have shown in contributing to the building fund.

Regardless of nationality or religious affiliations of any one, the bishop said, the sisters would be always prepared to minister unto suffering humanity.

"Gentle or Jew, believer or unbeliever, Catholic or Protestant will all have the privilege of the ministrations of these sisters and every one has an immortal soul," he declared.

Bishop Rhode closed his address by asking God's blessing upon the Sisters, upon their friends, upon the community and upon the entire city.

Mayor J. A. Hawes, chairman of the occasion, made a short talk in which

Strike Vote Only AIMS TO PREVENT MORE CUTS IN PAY
Union Heads Say They Wanted to Be Ready for Coming Wage Conference

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Ill.—Additional reductions of wages of railroad workers, will make a strike certain, according to railroad union heads here Monday.

The railroad union chiefs met here to consider the vote of their members favoring a walkout rather than accepting the 12 per cent reduction in wages made last July. The official count of the ballots was completed Monday and was said to favor a strike by a large majority.

According to one of the big four union leaders the strike vote was not taken with the purpose of calling a walkout as a result of the reduction of last July, but to forestall any further cuts. The union heads believed if they had a vote of the men favoring a strike which could be flashed at any time, the railroad executives would go slow in asking any further decreases.

Railroad executives of the country meeting in Chicago the latter part of this week are expected to decide to petition the railroad labor board for another wage reduction. At the same time they will suggest to the interstate commerce commission an adjustment downward of freight rates.

Following announcement that the railroad executives would meet Friday, union leaders announced they would hold up the decision of their strike conference until after the employers' meeting. Several union leaders believed a strike might be put into effect on some day, but a general strike of all railroad workers at this time was most improbable, they stated. However, in case the railroads attempt to force wages down further, the union heads declared that a general railroad strike would be the probable answer.

TIME APPEARS RIPE FOR U. S. SHIP SUBSIDY

Cabinet Will Wrestle With Merchant Marine Problem at Meeting Tuesday

U. S. AT PARTING OF WAYS
Opposition of Farming Interests Expected to Disappear With New Conditions

By David Lawrence
Copyright, 1921, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—President Harding and his cabinet have just tackled the biggest and most far-reaching problem of the administration—something that relates to unemployment, more markets for agricultural products, limitation of armament and international relations. It is the question of a merchant marine.

Two hours of discussion in the cabinet led to no conclusion except a determination to thresh the whole thing out further at next Tuesday's meeting.

The big question being considered is whether the Harding administration shall take a step, feared by preceding administrations, but nevertheless pointed out as the only solution, namely, a direct subsidy of American ships.

Chairman Albert Lasker has gone at the whole problem with characteristic vigor and has made a report to President Harding outlining the alternative before the American government. He has shown how this is the critical moment and how America stands at the parting of the ways—either she will lose her chance to build a merchant marine or she will avail herself of a golden opportunity to gather in trade around the world for the benefit of the American farmer and manufacturer.

Mr. Lasker has the confidence not only of the president but his associates. He foresees the failure of the United States Mail company and seized the ships they had been operating for the shipping board, later being vindicated absolutely in the opinion of Mr. Harding by the collapse of the company. That has only served to accentuate the necessity of making it possible for American concerns to compete on the seas with ships flying a foreign flag.

Different Situation Now
Briefly, it has been contended that the LaFollette seamen's act with its high scale of wages made it impossible for American firms to sail ships as economically as those of other countries. Deficits have arisen from other sources. The question is not the same, however, as it was in peace-time days before 1914 when it amounted merely to a subsidy to American enterprises. Now the government here owns a vast number of ships.

What shall it do with them? Shall they be sold at ridiculously low prices at a time when the price of tonnage is at its lowest point and even then let American shipping concerns to flounder for themselves in the face of conditions of competition that are ruinous, or shall the government enter into a sort of partnership with private enterprise, paying a subsidy for mail delivery and other items in order to develop routes to parts of the world hitherto untouched by the American trader?

Mr. Lasker insists that the problem is national, not sectional, that it interests the miner in Arizona as well as the farmer in Kansas. He made a significant speech in New York last week on these points. That speech was unquestionably gone over by the president before it was released to the press.

24 Perish When Steamer Sinks

Royal Flush Was Too Much For Player
HEAVY FOG CAUSED CRASH

New York.—Medical Examiner Nammack reported Monday that Philip Brenner, 67, a retired tailor, had died of cerebral hemorrhage, superinduced by a royal flush.

Brenner was playing in a 10-cent limit family poker game Sunday night at the home of his son-in-law. In one hand all the players stood pat before the draw and there was considerable raising.

This continued after the technical draw and Brenner suddenly collapsed. The medical examiner, seeking a cause for the stroke, found that Brenner had held a "once-in-a-lifetime" hand—the ace, king, queen, jack and ten of hearts.

OSHKOSH MAN AND DAUGHTER SHOT IN MILWAUKEE SALOON

Milwaukee.—Police Monday are investigating the deaths of Ole Larson, 65, Oshkosh, and his daughter, Helen, 34, who were found dead in the saloon of John Ashley here Sunday.

The tragedy was revealed when three shots were heard and on entering the saloon the police found Larson and his daughter lying dead upon the floor. Miss Larson had been shot in the left shoulder and neck, while the father's head had been almost blown off with a shot gun.

According to the police, Ashley admitted having lived with Miss Larson for the past three years. Ashley is alleged to have said the elder Larson had come to Milwaukee Saturday night and was staying with them. He said he retired and had barely gone to sleep when he heard the shots. He ran downstairs, he said, and saw Helen lying in a pool of blood.

Ashley alleged the elder Larson said, "I got her and now I'm going to let you." Before I could realize what he was about to do, I heard another shot and saw him crumple up in the corner of the room. Ashley is alleged to have said.

The police are unable to explain why Larson should have told Ashley he would "get him" and then turn the gun on himself.

Miss Larson, according to the police, is the mother of a 15-year-old boy, said to have been born to her in an earlier marriage. She is said to have obtained a divorce from her former husband several years ago.

SEEK TO BREAK UP COOPERATIVE BODY

Federal Authorities Allege Stock and Bonds Have Been Spirited Away

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Ill.—Authorities Monday announced they would file bankruptcy proceedings against the Cooperative Society of America in every federal district where the organization is in operation.

This follows action of Federal Judge E. A. Evans in appointing the Central Trust company of Chicago, receivers for the company which owns several bakeries, groceries, a life insurance company and other businesses.

Harrison Parker, sponsor of the company, Monday said his organization was solvent and "dared" the Central Trust company to seize office records. "They won't do it," he said, "because they know we could recover every bit of property the bank owns."

Search was made by authorities for bonds amounting to $2,000,000 which, according to charges, have been hidden by Parker. Parker denied this.

Federal authorities stated that the stock in all the subsidiaries of the Cooperative society have been turned over to Parker and his associates. Higinia is a bankrupt Columbus, Ohio, grocer and not a millionaire as Parker said.

WINNEBAGO FARMERS FIGHT FILLED MILK

Offer Support to State Food
Commissioner Against Alleged Adulteration

Appealing to the farmers of the state to aid in the fight against "filled" milk, the Winnebago County Farm Bureau will give strong support to J. C. Emery, Wisconsin dairy commissioner, at the hearing to be held in Madison about the middle of this month in regard to the legality of the state "filled" milk law.

Two manufacturers of "filled" milk have asked the state supreme court for an injunction to restrain the dairy commissioner from enforcing this law and officers of the farm bureau are now promoting a movement aimed to prevent issuance of such an injunction, believing it would be detrimental to the farmers' interests.

Under the law, the manufacture of "filled" milk is prohibited. Manufacturers declare that enforcement of the measure would force dismantlement of machinery now used in "filled" milk factories and would work a great loss and hardship upon them. These are the grounds upon which they oppose enforcement.

Friends of the law declare that present "filled" milk factories could be turned into milk condensaries with practically no loss to the owners and enforcement of the law would thus result in benefit to the public and the farmer. They declare that condensed milk is far more wholesome and nourishing than "filled" milk.

"Filled" milk consists of skimmed milk to which has been added, under specific conditions an emulsion of coconut oil. Farmers are anxious to bar it from the market because it cuts down on the natural product containing butterfat, which they declare is much more nourishing.

WANTS CITY TO FIND WORK FOR IDLE MEN

"Say it with jobs."

This is the slogan adopted by Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce in the Appleton Conference on Unemployment in looking to relief of idle workers.

Support of this program by the local chamber was asked Friday by Joseph H. Defrees, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Defrees urged local business men to get behind Mayor J. A. Hawes in a plan of organizing a local emergency committee to alleviate unemployment in Appleton. Every town, said Mr. Defrees, has a responsibility to the nation to organize to meet this question immediately and the nation can only bring its help to bear when the cities and the states are organized so as to make their help effective. Because business furnishes employment, he said, it has a very great responsibility in the present situation.

LIMITED STREET CAR SERVICE IS PROPOSED

Limited passenger service on inter-urban cars between Neenah and Fond du Lac will be in operation within a few days if plans announced Thursday by D. W. Arnold, manager of the Eastern Wisconsin Electric company, are put into effect.

Every other car between the two cities would make only limited stops, according to this plan, and would thus considerably reduce the time required to make the trip. Stops en route would be made at the state hospital, Oshkosh, Van Dyne and North Fond du Lac.

Cars would go into South Fond du Lac as far as Tenetah and would thus make it unnecessary for many passengers to stop at the terminal building and change to city cars in order to reach their destinations.

Under the present schedule maintained by the company, cars run hourly between the two cities. The first car north leaves at 7:10 in the morning and the last one at 11:10 in the evening. There is no car at 10:10, but with this exception the service is hourly.

Need More Rooms To Keep Women Off Park Benches

There will be a lot of women in Appleton next Wednesday and Thursday nights without a place to rest their heads unless more Appleton women open their hearts and their homes to delegates to the state convention of federal women's clubs which opens on Wednesday. It won't be much to Appleton's credit if it fails to provide room accommodations for several hundred women after inviting them to hold their convention in this city.

Members of Appleton Women's club, official hostesses to the convention, are working themselves into a state of frantic nerves in an effort to find rooms. They have followed every possible lead and still need sleeping quarters for a few hundred women and only one day remains in which to find them. It is a difficult problem and the only way it can be solved is for every woman in Appleton who can possibly accommodate a guest or two for two days to notify Mrs. G. M. Schumaker, chairman of the accommodations committee, at once, Mrs. Schumaker lives at 496 College-ave. and her telephone number is 1837 W.

The situation is the most delicate which has ever been experienced by the state federation. Never before has the hostess city failed to provide for its guests but it looks very much as if Appleton's reputation for hospitality will get a whole row of black eyes unless Appleton women rush to the rescue.

Committee women here have ceased asking for rooms—they have gone to pleading and begging. They realize the danger that many delegates either will have to return to their homes Wednesday evening or else spend the night in hotel chairs and on park benches unless more Appleton homes are opened to receive them.

Judge Burgess, in the municipal court, imposed a fine of $500 in each case. The fines were paid.

F. Cashman, Charles Crane, August Kerber, Peter Knudsen and Walter Yoss, local salesmen, were each fined $25 and costs, admitting a violation of the same statute.

FINEST WEATHER FOR FALL PLOWING

Farmers of Outagamie-co. are well along in their fall offensive against the soil.

Dun colored earth is being spun into long neat ribbons these days as painting tractors chug around the fields turning greensward into brown and renewing the color of land tilled during the summer.

Ideal weather after a period of adequate rainfall combined with the fact that the season's work was at least two weeks in advance of normal, gave the farmers an unprecedented opportunity to get their soil in shape for next spring's planting.

While the rain has sufficiently moistened the soil to make it turn over easily on high places, it has not hindered the plowing of swampy spots. In fact, many farmers declare this is the only opportunity they have had in several years to plow the marshy tracts. Heretofore the heavy spring and autumn rains made it impossible to go into the low lying land at all.

STURGEON BAY IS WHIPPED, 26 TO 6

Kaukauna is Too Strong for Visiting Team—Line Plunging Wins

Kaukauna—Kaukauna High school met and defeated Sturgeon Bay high in a hard fought battle at Kaukauna ball park Saturday afternoon by a score of 26 and 6. The Baymen were heavier than the local team but they lacked team work. Smith and Ott, Kaukauna's mainstay in the back field did not go into the game until the second quarter and immediately the going through the Bay lines were longer. Peranteau picked holes in real style and a few times he ate up more than 100 yards at a try.

In the second quarter the Orange and Black chucked up its second tally when Ott and Smith and Peranteau alternated in carrying the leather to within the five yard line and Luckow again went over.

Both teams tried gains by the air route occasionally but for the most part the passes were broken up. Sturgeon Bay seemed to wake up in the last period and began a march toward the goal. They reached the local 20 yard line but were halted. A drop kick was spoiled and the ball was recovered by the Bay. The Orange and Black stubbornly contested every gain and it was only by hard work that the visitors managed to score.

Milwaukee Man Declares Tanlac Has Made a Wonderful Change in His Home

"I am so thankful for what Tanlac has done for me and feel so certain it will help others who are suffering like I did that I would go out of my way to tell them about it," said Oscar W. Schroeder, of 435 16th Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., well known telegraph operator for the Armour Grain Co.

"When I began taking Tanlac I was suffering from stomach trouble and nervousness and my ailments were fast getting the upper hand of me. My appetite was so poor I ate little or nothing, and even what I did manage to force down gave me indigestion. I was bloated and my head ached. I was the greatest kind of pain. Nothing tasted right, and I had such spells of short breath that I often felt like I would smother. I would get so dizzy at my work I would just fall over at times, and I was so weak and worn out it was just all I could do to stay on the job.

"My wife says Tanlac has certainly made a wonderful change in our home, for it has put me in the very best of health and she is now taking the medicine herself with splendid results. I eat good and hearty at every meal, never have an ache or pain or feel a sign of indigestion and my work is a pleasure instead of a burden. Why, all my neighbors and friends are talking about the wonderful change Tanlac has made in me, and I want to say there's nothing else like Tanlac for troubles like I had."

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrown nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath, the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

EXPERTS PUZZLED OVER LOW QUALITY OF CHEESE

Monroe—Federal and state assistance has been called in this fall to seek the reason why so much of the product of Green county's Swiss cheese factories has "gone bad." There has been more low grade cheese produced here this season than ever before. Various experts advanced theories, but agreement is had on none.

Experiments in which small cheeses are made from the milk of individual cows, have been made to try to find the cows that are to blame for the spoiling of cheese.

This problem is of vast financial importance to this county, the greatest county in the world in production of foreign type cheese, including Swiss and Limburger. If Swiss cheese comes out of the curing cellar in such shape as to make "fancy" grade it brings up to 40 cents a pound at the factory, but if it is inferior in quality it sells as low as 5 cents a pound to the jobbers.

Making Extraordinary Mileage a Certainty

Car Owners want more rubber on the tread where the wear is hardest; more gum between cord plies to perfect a resilient and powerful carcass. And they want a scientifically constructed Non Skid tread with all angles and contacts to resist skidding and give sure traction. Firestone Cord Tires have met these demands of the car owners.

Read Letters Below—

Records from 29,000 to 57,000 Miles

Cord Tires built the Firestone way could not fail to produce mileage. Every day, from all over the country, comes the word that 10,000, 20,000 or 30,000 miles are frequent and consistent records.

Now and then they are emphasized by unusual instances such as quoted below. Performances like these demonstrate the ultimate possibilities of Firestone Cords under careful driving.

Sept. 10, 1921
Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Jacksonville Branch, Jacksonville, Florida.
Gentlemen—

I submit herewith the history of a 32x4 Firestone Cord tire. This tire has run 37,000 miles. I have retreaded it seven times. The average mileage to each retreading was about 7,000 miles. I think you will agree this is a remarkable record. It is especially unusual as I know the owner to be a severe driver. However, he gives his tires proper inflation. The tire in question is not yet out of service and has every indication of being sufficiently strong for another retreading. I am mailing photographs under separate cover.

C. L. Penney,
Plant City, Fla.

Sept. 2, 1921
The Harvey K. Mack Co., Thirteenth & Harmon Plaza, Minneapolis.
Gentlemen—

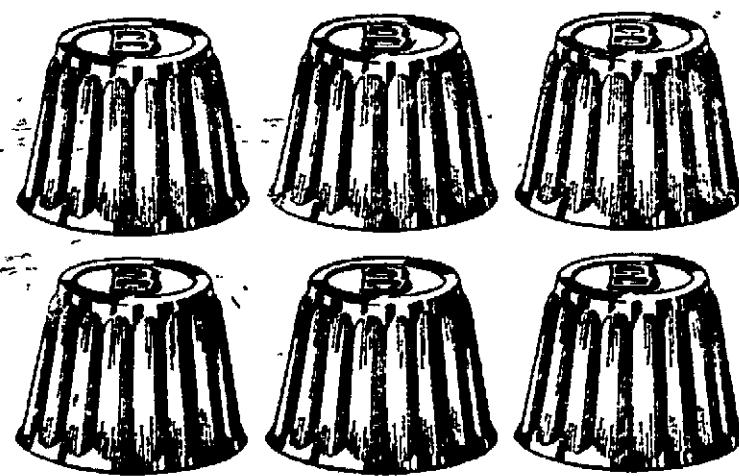

It occurs to me that you might be interested in the mileage that I obtained from the set of Firestone Cord tires on my Dodge coupe. The first tire went over 29,000 miles. The second tire rolled up a mileage of between 34,000 and 35,000. These were both rear tires and had been cut considerably by chains. The two front tires have gone better than 25,000 miles and are still in good condition. I expect to get at least 40,000 miles from each of them. I need scarcely say that the Firestone Cord will be my tire choice for the future.

Jiffy-Jell is the real fruit dessert. It is the only dessert with the real fruit flavors in liquid form, in glass.

We crush the fruit, condense the juice and seal it in a bottle. A vial of this real fruit essence comes in every package.

The flavor is abundant. We use,

So Jiffy-Jell is rich in fruit, as fresh and fragrant as though just picked. Simply add boiling water.

then the fruit juice from the bottle, and let cool.

BUSINESS MEN AND PEACE

That the United States must be the most important factor in stabilizing the financial and economic condition of the stricken lands of Europe is one of the principal conclusions stated by a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Members of this committee have just returned from Europe, where they made a thorough investigation of fundamental affairs. Of special interest is the report of this committee because it coincides, in the main, with the decisions announced by the International Chamber of Commerce, several weeks ago, in London. Both agree that the people of Europe need raw materials, and foodstuffs, but have no money with which to make purchases, and that the nations of Europe must establish credit in the United States, so that they may buy goods here.

The primary problem is to fix bases of credit. As soon as the various nations of Europe find ways to fix bases of credit they will be able to obtain credit, and procurement of credit will enable them to resume business. The committee is right in maintaining that the United States cannot refrain from cooperating actively and largely in rectifying economic and financial conditions. The world is now debtor to this country, and will be for many years. Inferentially, it is clear that the United States must be an aggressive contender for international trade. Further, this country can dominate the commerce of the world for years to come through its loans and credit to foreign governments and interests, and the formation of a system of reciprocal tariffs.

It is of the greatest significance that the report holds that the United States can safely participate in a restoration of commercial and industrial productivity in Europe by modification of the Versailles treaty. The committee, in fact, holds that practically all of the vital parts of the Versailles treaty as they affect this country should be supported by it. We should sustain the allies in the collection of indemnity from Germany; we should participate in the reparations commission; we should not withdraw our troops from the Rhine; we should, in brief, go through with the making of peace in the same spirit and along the same lines that we entered the war and helped the allies to victory. Here we have the conclusion of reputable business men of the highest standing, who have visited Europe and investigated political, economic and financial conditions on the ground. They are neither politicians nor idealists, but they have a sound sense of right and wrong, of integrity and honor, of business and commercial principles. They have a clear conception of what the United States ought to do in the making of peace, and we venture the opinion that it is a far better conception than any of the politicians down at Washington are able to get out of the smoke and strife of party warfare.

The conclusions reached by this commission are the same as those reached by every other disinterested body of investigators, no matter in what field they operated. The fact that they support in the main the peace policies of President Wilson is something more than a mere coincidence. It testifies to the fact that the United States ought to have joined with the allies in the making of peace and subscribed to the document signed at Versailles, with or without reservations, in the straightforward and upstanding manner that our part in the war itself demanded. Had we done this not only would the problems of peace and disarmament have been simplified, but a return of the entire world, including United States, to normal conditions would have been hastened.

FIRE

Whatever is destroyed by fire increases the cost of living for each of us. It may take time, but such losses inevitably spread out through the whole system of economies, to be borne by all. Yesterday, October 9th, the 50th anniversary of the Chicago fire, was set apart for national fire prevention day.

The great Chicago fire of 1871 destroyed $100,000,000 of property. At 4 per cent compound interest, that today would amount to about $700,000,000. And yet, each year, buildings destroyed by fire in America total a greater loss—averaging $250,000,000 a year. The evil is scattered, so we do not realize that every 365 days the nation stages a greater conflagration than the fire of 1871. Houses destroyed annually by fire would make a street over 200 miles long. On top of burned buildings, we have enormous wealth forever destroyed by forest fires.

What has turned into ashes is gone. The important point is that most fires result from carelessness. That the fire rate can be cut materially by exercising personal caution. The only way to prevent fire is to be careful in handling fire or the things that produce combustion—matches, smoldering cigar stubs, gasoline, campfires and greasy rags. An ounce of prevention is worth a ton of ashes.

PRAYERS, PUBLICITY AND DISARMAMENT

In scarcely more than a month the disarmament conference will take up the most momentous of all modern questions. Not only every nation on earth, but every individual, is interested vitally in the issue. The crushing burden of taxation weighs down everybody, and war is a matter of life and death both to persons and to peoples.

The delegates to the conference will represent their citizens, rather than their governments. Their ultimate moral and political responsibility will be to mankind, and not to institutions. Governments may flourish through war or military preparedness and aggrandizement, but human beings always suffer from debt, disaster and death.

It is well that President Harding has implored the citizens of the United States to solemnize Armistice Day and the opening of the disarmament conference with a minute's prayer. As he has said, we should commemorate the sacrifice and patriotism of the brave and holy dead in these brief devotions, for their martyrdom was the price which they paid to gain liberty for the world and to end war. And the conference will need nothing so much as the guidance of providence in its deliberations.

In advance of the conference the people should let Washington and the other participating governments understand that they expect the proceedings to be public. The work must not be done in secret. The people are more concerned in the discussions and negotiations than the diplomats and governments, and they are entitled to know what their agents say and do. The two prime needs of the conference are the guidance of prayer and the light of publicity.

A TITLE TO SUIT THE CHARACTER

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, divulged to a company of friends at a banquet in London how he came to name his most noted character, Sherlock Holmes. Everybody who has followed the deductive process of this remarkable detective with rapt attention in the unraveling of deep mysteries has been struck with the euphony of the title. Sherlock Holmes is a name that looks and sounds well; it gives the character a peculiar identity of personal class.

Sir Arthur said that he chose Holmes because it was an ordinary and easily remembered name, and contrasted with Dickens' appellation of "Sharp" for a detective. Sherlock was an inspirational selection. It was the name of a well-known English cricket player. The author just fitted Sherlock and Holmes together.

Hawkshaw was the favorite name for a detective prior to the appearance of Sherlock Holmes. For some time detectives were alluded to as hawkshaws. It is probably a more descriptive class term, applicable to all detectives, but is not so impressive or indicative for a character as Doyle's invention.

Dickens was the master of all authors in picking names which conveyed ideas of the characters drawn in his stories. The mind instantly pictures Murdstone, Dombey, Pickwick, Grimes, Little Em'ly, Micawber, or the Veneerings. This artistry is simply an adaptation of everybody's habit of visualizing a person on hearing his name.

OXYGEN AND THE HAIR

When a man grows bald he grows philosophical. Like a woman who grows fat. In stating this I am merely voicing a theory.

Briefly, my idea is that the reason so many more men than women go bald early, is that men smoke more than women do. And among certain women the smoking habit is already working havoc with the hair. As a general rule the cigarette smoking woman has pretty poor hair, if she has her own hair at all.

People who smoke suffer from under oxygenation, for two reasons. First, because the act of smoking induces shallow breathing and slows down breathing and second, because there is enough carbon monoxide (a powerful poison), and carbon dioxide (ordinary carbonic acid gas) in the smoke and air mixture to crowd out oxygen from the inspired air and from the blood corpuscles which carry oxygen. Any physiologist or chemist knows this is true.

Singers are noted for luxurious hair growth. Singers get their full share of oxygen. Violinists are noted for their brilliant domes. Fiddlers breathe in a slow, shallow manner while playing emotional or difficult pieces.

Most men who retain a heavy growth of hair well along in life are nonsmokers.

Even the Indians were moderate smokers, almost abstainers as compared with the modern custom. But the outdoor life and physical activity of the Indian compensated for the tobacco, for physical activity increases oxygenation in the body. Our modern smoking woman does not have this compensation; she is lazy. Perhaps if she did indulge in a reasonable amount of physical activity—work or play—daily, she would not crave the narcotic effect of tobacco to help her forget her uselessness.

The falling of hair following such severe illnesses as typhoid fever or influenza may be ascribed to the slowed oxygenation or lowered metabolism that follows such strains on the life process. Fortunately this effect of such diseases is generally of limited duration, and in the course of a year or thereabouts the hair comes in again—and whatever tonic or treatment happens to be in use at the time gets the credit for "restoring" the hair.

Take a reasonable amount of exercise daily if you want to save your hair.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Several weeks ago a correspondent's communication printed here referred to long suffering from what purported to be "itching piles," which was in fact found to be threadworm or pinworm infestation when the sufferer at last consulted a physician for examination. A great many readers have jumped at the conclusion that threadworm infestation is the usual cause of so-called "itching piles." That is not so, of course. In any case, do not ask for treatment for threadworm infestation, as a sort of third guess. Consult a physician for examination. All I intend to suggest to readers is that a diagnosis of "itching piles" or of internal piles made without medical examination is wrong about as often as it is right, and sometimes fatally wrong.

The Hypophosphite Myth

Please inform me whether the syrup of hypophosphites is good for a run down nervous condition. How many to take at a dose, and whether before or after meals. (Rev. E. M. W.)

Answer.—The idea of the old doctor who invented hypophosphites was that oxygen is a great thing for the health—and so it is. Next he reasoned that phosphorus has a marked affinity for oxygen—and so it has. Then he thought, why not feed sick folks a lot of phosphorus, which would make them absorb oxygen, which would kill off disease germs. Just before administering the first ounce of phosphorus he paused to reflect that it might kill the patient. So he switched to a milder remedy, a very distant relative, potassium hypophosphite—which does contain a faint trace of phosphorus, to be sure, rather less than beefsteak though. About the time the old doctor was ready to drop this phosphorus and oxygen idea of his, a nostrum vender took hold of the thing, and lo and behold.

ITALY TRAINS BLIND SOLDIERS

Italy has been training 1,500 blind soldiers. All of these are being trained for useful employment. In addition to having lost their sight, a number of these unfortunate soldiers are without arms or legs. Several ingenious devices have been invented to assist the armless blind soldiers to read. One of these consists of a little pocket battery and a belt encircling the chest and containing small needles. The device plays a record that causes a different note to prick for each letter and so the blind man reads.

ORANGES FOR MARMALADE

Women who are in the habit of making orange marmalade—this is just time of year for doing it—will be interested to know that the crop of bitter oranges in the Seville district is very full and of magnificent quality, though only about 75 per cent as plentiful as that of last year. Most of it goes to the marmalade manufacturers in Dundee, but about 10,000 half chests are available for other markets.

The Perfumer At Work

By Frederic J. Hanks.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The perfumer modern women use are more delicate products of the perfumer's art than the famous vials of scent treasured as priceless by Catherine de Medici and other medieval royalties.

—so we are told by the head chemist of a perfume laboratory here. Queen Catherine's official perfumer held many secrets of most secret business, but he could learn things from modern perfumers, if the art was not still a secret and a mysterious one. Many of the laboratories in which perfumes are concocted admit no visitors, but a big factory to family plant here agreed to show the reporter through its perfume section.

The head chemist of the department led the way through rooms fragrant with flower scents where huge rolling tanks hold the essences. Pipes run along the ceiling and end in spigots labeled rose, hyacinth, jessamine, and so on. To mix a perfume for bottling, a tank is rolled up and the desired spigots are turned on.

But perfume-making is not so easy as this might lead you to think. The processes first refine the natural essences, and long before quantities of any perfume can be mixed, the formula must be painstakingly evolved in the laboratory by a master perfumer. This is where the most important secrets of the business are guarded. A formula for a successful or promising perfume is as valuable as a state paper. If other firms should learn the ingredients and proportions of the formula, the work of many laboratory experiments necessary to produce it would be a loss.

The master perfumer is an artist, often a temperamental one. He sits among his vials, tubes and bits of cotton soaked in mixtures of scent, always mixing and sniffing for the elusive combination that will be new and at the same time appealing in some way—suggestive of fresh summer fields, of the subtle, languorous orient, or of the old-fashioned garden.

When he gets it—and he may work for months with some troublesome yet fascinating problem—he feels that he has given the world a work of art. Over here the master perfumer gets less recognition than he does in Europe. In Paris, his productions bear his name, and he is regarded with the same respect as the creators of beautiful clothes. In this country the manufacturing firm takes the limelight. The master perfumer may be no less a master, but he remains unknown.

The Raw Materials. In one corner of the perfume department of this plant is the steel floor of a vault. The head chemist swings open the heavy door, and stepped into a fairly large room. Here, he explained, are stored a quarter of a million dollars worth of imported ingredients which go to make fine perfumes. Shelves and tables are loaded with large glass bottles; cans with Chinese labels, foreign-looking kettles and canisters, and great stone crocks.

Turning on the lights, the chemist went the rounds of the shelves, showing how the different natural essences look when they are shipped from the foreign manufacturers, before they are refined, and also allowing the visitor the interesting if not always delectable privilege of smelling the heavily concentrated odors.

Violet, for example, when imported from southern France is a greasy, lardlike mass. The essence has been extracted overseas by pouring large quantities of petals into a mixture of molten beet suet and purified lard. This is stirred with a wooden paddle and allowed to stand several days until the fact has absorbed the flowers' fragrance. Then the mass is strained and cooled until it congeals.

Eagerly you bend over the jar of greasy stuff when the top is lifted, expecting to catch a heavenly whiff of pure violet, but the scent which arises is more like greasy soap, and very healthy soap at that. The essence is so strong that it seems to bear no relation to the delicate perfume which it eventually becomes.

Attar of roses, too, is here in the form of a liquid essence. This precious oil is shipped from Bulgaria in flat, round metal canteens with big stoppers. Surely, you think, this will fill the room with sweetness, but attar of roses at this stage is more suggestive of honeycomb—as near as these strong, almost paralyzing odors can be compared to anything else.

Beyond, on the shelves, are laven-der from the Alps in big glass bottles, and bergamot in copper kettles from Sicily and Italy. Oil of lemon in kettles is one of the few essences which would be recognized here by the average person from the odor. It smells just like the peel—strong, pleasantly pungent.

—Holland is another pleasant smelling ingredient, giving the fresh scent of new mown hay. Perfume With a Punch. But the climax of the smelling tour is not reached. The head chemist picks up a cow horn, such as the pioneers once used for gun powder. There is a leather pouch fastened over the top. This he cautiously removes, warning the visitor to inhale with discretion. It is a timely warning for the scent so carefully packed for shipping is that of civet from the civet cat—a small well known fox for its nauseating potency. Northern Africa contributes this delicacy to the perfumer, sending it in horns like the one described. This is the most powerful odor of the entire collection, even outranking musk which is seen and smelled nearby.

Musk, from the musk-deer, has the appearance of a dark brown pod and smells damp and musty with a faint suggestion of old leather in its bouquet. The value of the dinky brown musk pods is in direct contrast to their esthetic appeal. The pods are bought through a French bank. Special messengers carry the musk in small bags, each worth perhaps $5,000. Musk brings $500 a pound.

"Most people," the chemist explained, "have no idea that these heavy animal odors play an important part in almost every perfume. The public thinks that rose perfume is a single odor. As a matter of fact, a rose preparation would probably include not only the delicate floral essence, but an oil—sandalwood, or patchouli—to round it out, and give it bouquet, and then one of the heavies, such as musk, civet, or ambergris for a fixative."

"The complete perfume" may be compared to a musical composition with the animal odors for undertones in the bass clef, and the floral essences for the melody in the treble. Certain ones blend, and if combined in balanced proportions there is harmony. Otherwise there may be discord of scent just as violent as any discord in music.

There are two kinds of perfumes. There are the perfumes that represent some particular flower, and there are the composites or bouquets which contain sometimes 40 different odors gathered from the four corners of the earth."

Perfume and Character. These bouquets, he explained, are now very popular in this country, though rose and violet are always best sellers. The single flower perfume is generally preferred by strongly individualistic persons.

The perfumes a woman uses is as good an index of character as the music she likes. The Russian perfumes are heavy, almost oriental, with a suggestion of leather. Oriental perfumes easily call up the mysterious East. Americans prefer the more delicate and spiritual scents.

The chemist tells us that perfume is more widely used now than ever in history. When Louis XV demanded a new perfume originated specially for him each day, and further back, when Greek aristocrats bathed in violet scented fountains, and Rome tried to make laws to keep her wealthy men from anointing themselves three times a day and using different perfumes on different parts of the body—in all these times—perfumes was the most precious possession of the patrician class. A gift of myrrh, spikenard, or aloes was a princely offering. Today perfume is within reach of practically everyone.

As generally as it is used, there are things about perfume that people do not always understand. One is that a perfume is four times as strong as a toilet water. The latter may be sprayed without much danger, turning oneself into a walking flower garden, but a perfume should be dispensed less generously. Its scent is far more concentrated and lasting. A drop or two is sufficient.

Another fact that perfume-users might remember to advantage in selecting essences is that some odors are what is known as "dry." Violet is one of these. A dry odor cannot be judged satisfactorily from the bottle. It should be sprayed or dropped on something and allowed to dry. In fact, almost any perfume can be better pronounced upon in this way, as a sniff at one bottle of strong essence is apt to paralyze the olfactory sense, and after that the purchaser can scarcely judge of the other samples offered.

A Resume of American Newspaper Opinion

Grouping the Railroads.

"This country is about to engage in one of the greatest railroad debates in its history," announces the Philadelphia Public Ledger (Ind.) And this verbal tournament is opened by the editors of the country in their discussion of the Interstate Commerce Commission's proposed merger of American railroads into nineteen great competitive systems. There are many editorial writers who think, with the Ledger, that "debate is likely to be all that will come of the proposals for many a day." Acceptance of the plan in principle depends, in the opinion of a number of writers, on the extent to which it preserves the competition and initiative which they hold, is essential to efficient railroad operation. But the press as a whole regards the Commission's report as a step in the right direction, and editorial discussion thus far has developed little opposition and considerable strong support.

The proposed grouping impresses the New York Globe (Ind.) as "one further step in the formulation of a railroad policy which this country has never consciously defined," a step which the Brooklyn Eagle (Ind. Dem.) regards as "undoubtedly a move in the right direction," resulting, as the paper believes it will, in "the strengthening of weak lines, curtailment of waste, and the co-ordination which makes for increased efficiency and more adequate service."

As the Pittsburgh Gazette Times (Rep.) sees it, the Interstate Commerce Commission, under the authority of the Transportation Act of 1920, is seeking to correct the mistake of "standing against logical consolidations," and the result will probably be a less desirable transportation policy than would have been developed by the roads themselves, since the assignments will be made "more or less arbitrarily by a power whose viewpoint rarely is that of the practical men who brought the American transportation systems to a high state of efficiency." The process proposed by the Louisville Courier Journal (Dem.) thinks, "would throw upon the owners of the best railroads the burdens of the others, and gratuitously bestow upon the owners of the weak systems the benefits which years of careful management had brought."

Of course, the Chicago News (Ind.) concedes, "this policy involves a temporary sacrifice on the part of the roads called upon to assist in the consolidation," but it points out that "it is believed by impartial students of transportation problems that this sacrifice is unavoidable and that in the long run consolidation will prove beneficial to all concerned." Further, the Baltimore American (Rep.) adds, "the idea has been adopted in principle by the roads."

The Newark News (Ind.) finds "two distinct benefits" which such consolidation will confer upon the railroads.

"The first is escape for a long time to come from the ghost of public ownership, which has been walking over the roads in the war, and had continued under the return to private management just before the period of great depression. The second is the ability to work out profitable combinations without interference by the anti-trust laws, including the absorption of lines not particularly strong in themselves, but which might develop amazingly under centralized management as feeders for great systems."

While "the broader interests of the public demand first consideration," the New York Herald (Ind.) holds that at the same time "the need for encouraging initiative and foresight among railroad managers cannot be ignored," and since American railroads as they exist at present "are the work of personal foresight, enterprise, genius and daring," the Chicago Journal (Dem.) insists that "in any plans for

FOREIGN PRESS COMMENT

Historic Doubles

The recent coincidence of the death of King Edward's "double" and the discovery in France of a double to President Millerand recalls the old theory that every man has his phylactery counterpart, remarks the Manchester Guardian in discussing the "doubles" of European notables.

"It is a theory believed by many people," says the Guardian. "Although there may be no scientific basis for it, in spite of all the many situations it has provided for novelists and dramatists. It seems to be the fact, however, that apart from twins, these resemblances are not dependent on any relationship, nor always on a common nationality. Gladstone's double was a certain Austrian statesman who was once mistaken for Gladstone by a person in the town of Darlington. This person was a great admirer of Gladstone and attempted to express to his double the admiration he felt. His overtures were rejected with marked rudeness, and when someone who had watched the scene remonstrated with the Austrian (who did not love Gladstone) he replied, with some satisfaction, 'I hope I have deceived Mr. Gladstone in one admirer.'

"King Edward had more than one double in his time, and there used to be, in a village near London, a master plumber with a striking resemblance to King George in his Duke of York days." Lord Weardale suffered at the hands of an infuriated suffragist on account of a likeness to Mr. Asquith.

"In some cases the doubles of great men take a pathetic pleasure in trying to accentuate the likeness by some initials or dress or suit, and trying to have his would-be double in the days of his glory. On the other hand, it is very rarely that we hear of the doubles of famous women, or of one woman being mistaken for another. Feminine individuality seems to set the superlatum at defiance. It is true also that eminent men rarely see the likeness of their doubles to themselves."

ORDER PROHIBITS FLYING SWITCHES

City Attorney Acts to Protect Public From Danger at Lake-st. Crossing

One of the pronounced dangers to autosists crossing the tracks of the Chicago and Northwestern, and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railways in the "flats" has been removed through action taken by Theodore Berg, city attorney. He wrote the Wisconsin railroad commission asking that something be done about the practice of making "flying switches" over this crossing, and was informed in a letter received Monday morning that the two companies have been asked to end the practice.

Mr. Berg received a number of complaints from pedestrians and automobile owners because of narrow escapes when freight cars uncoupled from the switch engine were speeded across Lake-st. with enough momentum to carry them into sidings.

The reply from the railroad commission says that it usually is contrary to custom for roads to make flying switches over grade crossings, especially where there is heavy traffic on the streets. The railroads were asked to discontinue making such switches and Mr. Berg was told to inform the commission if switch crews did not comply. This order gives protection on one of the busiest crossings in Appleton.

POTATOES MUST CONFORM TO STATE SALE REGULATIONS

Four Grades of Potatoes May be Sold—Containers Must be Labeled

Now that the law requires potatoes to be graded before sale, Joseph D. Hodgins, city sealer of weights and measures, makes public grading rules contained in a bulletin recently received from the new division of markets.

A working knowledge of these rules will enable farmers and others engaged in the purchase or sale of potatoes to keep within the new grading law.

The law recognizes three grades of potatoes: Wisconsin grade and United States grades No. 1 and No. 2. To qualify for the highest or Wisconsin grade, potatoes must be of the proper size, mature, bright, smooth and well-shaped. They must be free from dirt, fresh injury, sunburn, second growth, cracks, cuts, scab, blight, soft or dry rot, or any other damage caused by diseases, insects or mechanical devices.

Potatoes sold under this grade must be packed in new even-weight sacks containing 100, 120, or 150 pounds, net weight. Each sack must be labeled "Wisconsin Badger Brand Potatoes" and the tag must show the net weight when packed. The brand mark must be made with an official seal supplied by the Division of Markets.

United States grade No. 1, like the Wisconsin brand, must be equally free from defects. The diameter of the potatoes, if round, must not be less than one and seven-eighths inches and if of the long variety, not less than one and three-fourths inches. These potatoes must be sacked in the same manner as the Wisconsin grade and must be plainly labeled, "U. S. Grade No. 1 Potatoes." No official seal is required.

United States grade No. 2 must be practically free from defects. The diameter of potatoes for this grade must not be less than one and one-half inches. They must be packed in the same manner as the first grade and plainly labeled, "U. S. Grade No. 2 Potatoes." To permit sale of potatoes which do not conform to either of the three grades, the law permits these potatoes to be handled under the label "U. S. No. 1 Potatoes" but it is in violation of the law to sell such potatoes unless they are so marked.

Potato grading machines are now in operation at various places in Appleton where potatoes are bought by wholesale. These machines consist of three screens, one above the other. The upper screen has a mesh of the proper size to retain all Wisconsin grade potatoes and all other sizes to drop through. The second screen retains all of the United States No. 1 grade while the bottom screen retains the United States No. 2 grade. The screens are moved as in a fanning mill to force the passage of the potatoes through them.

Comes From Germany To See Cornerstone Laying

The mother general of the entire Franciscan order, the Ven. Mother Mary Veneranda of Sulzkothen, Germany came to Appleton to attend the cornerstone celebration at St. Elizabeth hospital Sunday. She arrived Thursday afternoon with her assistant general, the Ven. Mother Mary Crysanthia and the Ven. Mother Mary Casimira, Mother Provincial of St. Clara province of the Franciscan Sisters of St. Louis, Mo.

Mother Veneranda made the journey from the mother house in Germany to America to inspect the American provinces and missions of the Franciscan order. She arranged her trip so as to be the guest of the sisters at St. Elizabeth hospital at the time of their celebration. Although the majority of the sisters at the hospital entered the provincial mother house at St. Louis, the order is originally of German origin and the central administration of the nuns is in that country. Many of the nuns who have been at the hospital have come to America from Germany.

The German sisters will remain in this vicinity for some time, visiting the homes and missions of the Franciscan order.

NEENAH GIRL HAS WON WORLD FAME AS OPERA SINGER

Mme. Vanda Christone LaCapria Returns From European Career

With a former Appleton girl, now a successful artist, Luella Chilson Melius appearing in concert here Tuesday evening comes the great success of a former Neenah girl, Vanda Christone, now Mme. Vanda LaCapria, in the music world. Mme. LaCapria has recently returned from a successful career in Europe and is now teaching in Chicago with great success.

It was Arthur Shattuck who interested Neenah people in the voice of Mme. LaCapria when she was but a tiny child. She took her first voice lesson from Mrs. Vermont of Neenah, continuing later under Mme. Hoster, a grand opera star. She made her Neenah debut when she graduated from the Neenah high school. Her first formal study of voice began at Lawrence Conservatory of Music where she studied with Dean William Harper.

Mme. Schumann-Heink interested herself in Miss Christone's voice and then her career began. She studied with many great teachers in America and then went to Italy where she studied with Lombardi, Caruso's teacher and several other famous singing masters. It was in Italy that she first met Caruso with whom she has sung a great deal. She won great favor in Europe but was forced to return to this country at the outbreak of the world war. She has since been married to Maestro Vincenzo LaCapria, noted orchestra conductor, formerly of Naples. The Christone family has

DREAM SPURS SINGER TO GREAT SUCCESS

Mme. Chilson Melius Dreamed She Had Overcome Obstacles and She Does

Psychologists are trying to analyze a dream which is said to have greatly improved the voice of Mme. Luella Chilson Melius who will appear in concert here at Lawrence Memorial hall Tuesday evening. After a dream in which Mme. Melius believed that she had learned to sing properly with perfect freedom of range and expression, there was a marked change in her voice. So intent was her dream that she went to the piano in her sleep and was playing and singing when her husband woke her. It is claimed that she retained much of the power which she dreamed she had achieved.

Dream experts have said that this dream was the cause of overcoming a number of subconscious obstacles which had formerly kept her from being the successful artist which she had desired to be. Dr. S. U. Lawton, a noted psychologist from New York, believes that when Mme. Melius awoke she was so wrapped up in the thoughts of her dream success that she forgot to be conscious of the things which had been a barrier to her vocal success. Such things have happened to other artists and famous people when they were able to overcome obstacles in a so-called psychological dream.

Mme. Melius, who made her home in Appleton for many years and who attended Lawrence college, will sing her first American concert here after a year and a half of hard but successful study in Europe. She was a great favorite with Appleton people personally and musically before she went to Europe. Her many friends and well-wishers are looking forward to her concert with keen anticipation.

HONOR MEMORY OF Y. M. C. A. FOUNDER

Notables Gather in Chicago Tuesday to Celebrate Anniversary

The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Sir George Williams, founder of the Y. M. C. A., will be observed Oct. 11 throughout the Christian world. A centennial celebration will be held at the Y. M. C. A. college at Chicago.

The Centennial is being observed in formal services and in closer study of the processes and results of a life which spread its influence over the whole world.

Within the span of his own life George Williams saw the Y. M. C. A., both as an organization and as a spiritual force, enfold the earth. When its founder died in 1905, sixty-one years after its beginning, the Y. M. C. A. had 7,773 associations, with 722,000 members, totals which have spent a fortune on the training of Mme. LaCapria's voice. She is soon to start on a concert tour.

Lawrence Team Whips Stevens Point Normal After A Hard Battle

Three Touchdowns and Drop Kick Give Lawrence 22 to 0 Victory—All Scores are Made in Last Half.

Lawrence college football team got off on the right foot in the collegiate football season by defeating Stevens Point Normal 22 to 0, at Lawrence field Saturday afternoon. All the Lawrence scores were made in the last half after the visitors were quite severely battered by their attacks on heavier opponents.

The Pointers played Lawrence even in the first period, holding the college for downs occasionally and occasionally making first down on their own part. Lawrence threatened to score twice in the first period. Once the ball was lost on a fumble after forward passes and line plays, and once after Doering failed in a drop kick from the 20 yard line.

Lawrence's first score came about a minute after the start of the third quarter when Boettcher picked up a fumble and ran 30 yards for a touchdown. Later in the quarter Basing bucked through the line for the second marker. He failed in his first attempt to kick goal but succeeded in the second. Doering's second attempt to drop kick, made in the final period, was successful. Ziebell scored the last touchdown on a line smash after Goan had carried the ball to about one yard from the line on a long forward pass from Ziebell.

Line Opens Holes Lawrence showed little fight in the first two periods. The line was tearing big holes in the Pointers' forward wall but the backfield men were slow in getting started and as a result the visitors' second period defense was on them before they were well underway. Lawrence interference was poor and its open field running was ragged. The visitors played Lawrence even in the first two periods.

More fight was shown in the second period while Stevens Point seemed much slower by comparison. Boettcher's dash for a touchdown sort of took the heart out of the visitors but they showed considerable speed a little later when they opened up with a forward pass attack, which however, netted but few gains.

Lawrence depended very largely on line plays, mixed with a few forward passes. Mighty few tricks were displayed.

Eagleberger is Star Eagleberger, Stevens Point half-back, probably was the big star of the game. He was the most consistent ground gainer for the losers and was one of the most deadly attackers on either team. Holman also played a whale of a game for the losers. The Stevens Point tackling was harder and more certain than that of Lawrence and its interference was fully as good. Its line, however, was far inferior to the Lawrence wall.

The Blue and White guards and tackle put up a mighty stubborn fight and it was seldom that a visitor got through. Doering played well on the end, spilling several plays before they were well started. Boettcher and Basing were consistent ground gainers but neither was very strong in the defense. The line did most of the stopping of the visitors. Ziebell played a nice game on defense and offense. Kubitz either had an off day or else he was a marked man inasmuch as he could hardly get started before he was pulled down. The visitors were set for him and several players piled on him every time he carried the ball.

Gain is Speedy The greatest burst of speed was shown by Goan when he relieved Kubitz near the end of the third quarter. This young man fairly bristled with speed and he made the Pointers look bad when he got away. Barry, who relieved Boettcher, also made some good gains and carried the ball well.

The Lineup: Lawrence — Doering, Holmes, Normington, ends; Hunting, McGlynn, tackles; Sorenson, Ketchum, guards; Smith, center; Ziebell, quarterback; Kubitz, Boettcher, Barry, Goan, halfbacks; Basing and Grignon, fullbacks.

Stevens Point — Anderson and Shumway, ends; Wilson and Hansel, tackles; Procureur and Hale, guards; Redfield, center; Goan, quarterback; Eagleberger and Heid, halfbacks; E. Holman, fullback.

HAMBURG TEAM IS EASY PICKING FOR PACKERS Green Bay, Wis.—Displaying super football the Green Bay Packers won the third game of the season, defeating Cornell Hamberg, Chicago, 40 to 0. The visiting team was hopelessly outclassed and only made first down four times during the game. The Packers' smashing offensive built around sensational forward passes paved the way for an easy victory. Three touchdowns were made via the aerial attack. Chicago was never within the Packers' thirty yard line. Keeley, Davis and McWeeney starred for Chicago, while Wagner, Martell, Howard and Cary were the luminaries for Green Bay.

BRANDTS TAKE BLACK SOX INTO CAMP ON SUNDAY

Bunched Hits Give Appleton a 6 to 2 Win Over Canadian Team

Wobbly support in the ninth inning robbed Hank Schultz of a shutout victory over the Calgary Black Sox but the Brandts hammered out a 6 to 2 win in spite of the last minute slips Sunday afternoon. A small crowd of chattering fans saw the game.

Schultz held the blacks to two safe hits, one in the fifth inning and one in the ninth. Two errors, mixed with a wild pitch, and the hit gave the visitors their two runs. Schultz fanned 13 enemy batters during the afternoon, whiffing two men each in the first and second innings and three in the third.

Neither team threatened in the first frame but an error and a hit in the second resulted in a run for the Brandts. Luedtke got a life on an error and scored on a single by Wood.

Five runs were hammered off Scotty, the Negro pitcher in the fifth inning. Wood started with a single, was sacrificed to second by Schultz and went to third when Beyer doubled to center. The fielder misjudged the ball and Wood held the sack until he was sure it was either caught or went for a hit. Kuenn followed with a single which scored Wood and Beyer and then Mudloff was walked. Scott's double scored Mudloff and Kuenn and he scored himself on Lamers' hit. Scotty left the mound after that blow and Wickware took up the burden, retiring the side by forcing Luedtke to pop out.

A circus catch by Durain out of a sure hit in the seventh. The center fielder caught the ball after a long run almost into left field.

The Brandts threatened in the seventh inning also but a one-handed spear cut off a run. Mudloff had singled after one was out and then Shott whaled the ball to centerfield but Scotty, who had gone into the garden, grabbed it by a one handed leaping stab.

Luedtke tripped to start the eighth inning but was caught at the plate when he tried to score on Beyer's roller.

CITY BALL TITLE GOES TO FORESTERS Arcades Defeated by 5 to 0 Score in Final Game of City Series

The Catholic Order of Foresters baseball team now has an undisputed title to the city championship by virtue of its 5 to 0 victory over the Jones Arcade team at Interlake park Sunday afternoon. Niles held the Arcades safe all the way, allowing only three hits. Eight strikeouts were handed out, including a home run by Reider.

Boyle, Stoebauer and Bauer were the shining lights of the game. All three played great fielding games and were dangerous at bat. Niles held the Arcades safe after the third inning. His curves were breaking nicely and the Arcades were baffled.

The Foresters played a better fielding game, ending the contest without an error charged against them while six were credited to the Arcades. A purse of $75 and the city title went to the winner of the game.

The Foresters will begin preparations at once for putting one of the strongest amateur teams in the state into the field next spring.

Coach Dietz

Lafayette, Ind. — Coach W. H. "Lonestar" Dietz, new football mentor at Purdue University, is using Indian psychology with the Boiler makers, who are going to make a strong bid for their old place in western football this season.

Dietz has revised the coaching system that has been in effect at Purdue for several years. He formerly was a Carlisle star and later assistant to Glenn Warner, coach at the Indian school.

While coaching at the University of Washington, Dietz for three years in a row turned out the Pacific Coast championship team.

Sport Views And News

Ripon's great game against Marquette last Saturday indicates that Lawrence will have to step out if it wishes to cop the 1921 Little Five championship. Ripon held the powerful Marquette team to a scoreless tie and then threatened to beat the university men. That means Ripon has some team and it will not be a walk-away for Lawrence.

The cocky Yanks aren't quite so cocky as they were last week. Sunday's Giant win evened up the series and now McGraw is sitting pretty because he has a battery of real mound artists to fall back on while Huggins has mighty little pitching material left. The series is becoming more interesting.

Wisconsin piled up a 24 to 3 victory over South Dakota. The Badgers are being termed the "mystery" team of the Big Ten. It is our opinion that Coach Richards is playing his team "under wraps" and only scoring enough points to make the win sure. This coming week end the Madisonians play their first conference game and it is a sure bet that the Cardinal team will pile up a big count against the Purple.

SATURDAY WAS A DAY OF UPSETS IN GRID CIRCLES

Supposedly Stronger Teams Are Humbled in Saturday's Battles

Saturday was a day of upsets in the football world. Several teams which had been "doped" to win easily fell by the wayside before supposedly inferior squads.

First there is the case of Appleton high school. The team was confident of downing the Antigo eleven but overconfidence and the fact that the men were almost frozen after the long automobile trip to the northern city resulted in a 13 to 0 whipping.

Football followers were astounded by the defeat which Notre Dame suffered at the hands of Iowa. It was the first defeat for the South Bend school in three years. Iowa cut big holes in the Notre Dame wall and dashed around the ends for big gains. The defeat will go a long way toward dimming Notre Dame's athletic star.

The biggest surprise in Wisconsin was the sterling work of Ripon against Marquette. The Red and White eleven stamped itself as a formidable contender for the Little Five title by holding Marquette to a scoreless tie and came within inches of defeating the big Milwaukee school. It was a fierce battle and Ripon proved that it has a really strong team. Gustin showed itself to be one of the best backfield men in the state and he will cure McCheeny's team all it can handle when it meets Ripon here next month.

Beloit eliminated Carroll college from the state championship race by a 14 to 7 score. The game was hotly contested and the teams are quite evenly matched. Beloit was held to a tie score a week ago by Northwestern of Watertown and defeated Northwestern university in the first game of the season.

Chicago university had a hard time whipping Purdue college on Saturday. Purdue had lost to Wobash the week before and the Maroons figured they would have an easy time with the Purple. Blocked punts gave the win to Chicago.

Another serious upset was the victory of Oberlin college over Ohio State, 7 to 6. The State team failed to show much fight and was unable to stop the fleet Oberlin backs.

Indiana was no match for Harvard in the first intercollegiate game, losing 19 to 0. Such a team was unable to get started and its open style of play was spoiled by a heavy rainstorm in the last half.

FRESHMEN GRIDDERS LOSE TO OSKOSH NORMAL Lawrence freshmen football team was defeated by Oshkosh normal school at Oshkosh Saturday afternoon, 35 to 0. The normal school plays Lawrence regulars here on Saturday.

Oshkosh lost to Ripon early in the season and next Sunday's game may give the fans some idea of the comparative strength of the two squads. The Normalites have improved wonderfully the last two weeks, it is said and are primed to give Lawrence a hard fight.

HILL IS HERE AND READY FOR SEASON

George Hill, Appleton's wrestling champion, blew into town Saturday night and announced that he is ready for the wrestling season to begin.

George has been with a carnival company all summer. The show wound up in the east.

George looks to be in good condition and says a few weeks of training will put him in shape to meet the best in the country. He said he will not sidestep any match that can be made for him.

Hill's reputation last winter is sure to insure good matches this winter. Paul Martinson already is on his trail and several other grapplers of reputation would like to see how good Hill really is.

MILWAUKEE AND BROOKLYN WINNERS The Brooklyn Dodgers had little difficulty in defeating Oshkosh at Oshkosh, Sunday afternoon. Cadore held Oshkosh to one hit, a triple, in seven innings and the Dodgers won, 8 to 1. Smith's triple at the start of the sixth paved the way for the Overalls runs.

Stevenson was nipped for 12 hits and many of them were bunched in the fifth and seventh innings. Menasha gave the Milwaukee Brewers a hard fight on Saturday but lost, 4 to 2. Heath held the barnstormers to seven hits while Geavin and Troutman were nipped for eight blows. Menasha scored two runs in the sixth inning on hits.

KAUKAUNA LEGION TEAM WINS FROM MENOMINEE Showing the result of good training but presenting a front unable to hold the plunging Kaukauna American Legion football backs, Menominee Maroons were sent back to Menasha on the short end of a 35 to 0 score. The men from the peninsula were somewhat rattled on their signals after a few touchdowns, and were penalized again and again for offense, but they tackled well.

Four of the markers were scored in the first half by the regulars and one was made by the second squad in the last period. All of the scores were the result of a steady progress toward the goal on the part of the legionnaires. The longest run for a touchdown taken by Schroeder from the 15 yard line.

Highs, Chilled By Long Ride, Lose To Antigo To 19 To 0 Score Saturday

Appleton Unable to Get Started in Game With Northern School—Fumbles Responsible for Antigo Touchdowns.

Numbered by five hours' exposure to the cold and unable to handle a slippery ball during a snowstorm, Appleton high school football team suffered its first reverse of the season when it lost to Antigo at Antigo Saturday afternoon, 19 to 0. The team did not play its usual type of football at any time during the game and it was not until the last quarter that it showed any fight.

Most of the Antigo gains were made on end runs and short dashes close to the end of the line. Very few gains of consequence were made in line plays. Forward passes netted a few yards.

Appleton fumbles paved the way for three Antigo touchdowns and robbed the team of several excellent chances to score. The Orange and Blue line was within scoring distance several times but the ball would be fumbled and Antigo would either carry it or punt it out of danger.

First Quarter Even The first quarter was evenly contested with both teams playing in the center of the field pretty much of the time. The squads were depending quite largely on line plunges but neither side was gaining substantially. The field was so slippery that the heavy Appleton backs had trouble in getting started and they showed little fight when they did get going.

A fumble on Appleton's 30 yard line, recovered by Antigo opened the road to the first touchdown. Two end runs carried the ball to the Orange and Blue 2 yard line from where it was carried over on a fake play. The second touchdown was scored about five seconds before the end of the half. Appleton fumbled on its 20 yard line and Antigo recovered. Two end runs netted about 12 yards, and with only a few seconds to play, the ball was passed over the line into the arms of a waiting player.

March Toward Goal Appleton started a march to the Antigo goal in the third quarter but Tappert fumbled the ball as he was about to pass from the Antigo 40 yard line. An Antigo man dashed through, caught the ball on the bound and ran over a clear field for a touchdown. Thereafter the play was almost entirely in Antigo territory. The local team would carry the ball to within striking distance when it would fumble or the Antigo defense would stiffen and the chance to score was lost.

Antigo has a splendid team and will give any squad in the state a real fight. The backfield is fast and shifty and the entire team is exceptionally strong on defensive play. The line is a little light but acquitted itself creditably against the Appleton wall.

Coach A. K. Vincent and the men are certain that the long ride in automobiles to Antigo was partly responsible for their defeat. The men could not get the chill out of their bones and as a result they went into the game stiff and cold.

The defeat is a serious setback in the championship race. While it does not eliminate Appleton entirely it dims its chances.

Saturday is an open date on the Appleton schedule but an effort is being made to book a game.

INTERLAKE BANQUET TO BE HELD ON THURSDAY Plans for winter athletic season will be made at the semi-annual banquet of Interlake Athletic association at Hotel Appleton at 7 o'clock Thursday night. An interesting program is being arranged.

It is planned to organize a bowling league of ten teams at the mill this season. It is also probable that a basketball team will be formed and arrangements will be made to make use of the facilities provided by the company for athletics.

TWIN SCOURGES Health Talk No. 42 By James A. Rolfe, D. C.

DI-SEASE and Ignorance are two of the greatest handicaps which mankind has to fight. They stand between the race and all that makes life worth living. Suffering is due to a violation of nature's laws or to ignorance of nature's way to keep the body in health. The sooner we become acquainted with nature's way, the less suffering we'll have, and the quicker will we free ourselves of time worn practices that often retard the well-being of the world. Civilization demands newer ideas—progress provides them.

Mailbox At Every Home
Will Facilitate Service

In order to make for Appleton a 100 per cent showing in the matter of proper house numbers and proper mail receptacles, the Appleton postoffice will participate in observance of "national mail receptacle and house number census day" which has been designated for Oct. 19 by Postmaster General William R. Hayes.

The postmaster general's proclamation was received Saturday by Postmaster Gustavo Keller, who announced that not only city but rural carriers would help in the campaign.

"Probably in no other city in the state are the homes so well provided with mail receptacles and house numbers as in Appleton," Mr. Keller said. This is because we have always given particular heed to these details and have continually called the attention of the postmen to the necessity of complying with regulations in this respect.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the houses in the city are now equipped with numbers and mail receptacles. It is to make the showing perfect that we will observe the day. Lack of house numbers and mail receptacles retards delivery and hinders efficiency of the service. If a house is properly numbered there is no danger of mistakes in delivery. If there is a proper receptacle, the carrier does not have to ring the bell and wait for someone to answer and he does not have to carry the mail back to the office if there is no one at home. Answering the carrier's bell is also an inconvenience to members of the household. This bother is obviated if a proper mail box is provided.

Annual inspection of rural routes begins this month. Patrons of these routes are urged to see that everything affecting delivery of their mail is in good shape so that a favorable report can be sent to the postmaster general. City and rural patrons are asked to examine their mail boxes and repair them if necessary.
